11. Rights of the data subject related to the processing of personal data

a) The data subject's right to access the data (right to inspection)

The data subject has the right to inspect his or her own data in the register in compliance with section 12. Applying the right to inspection is principally free of charge.

b) The data subject's right to request rectification, deletion or limited processing of data

The data subject must request the rectification, deletion or supplementing of erroneous, deficient or obsolete data on their own initiative when it is possible. The measures must be taken without undue delay when the data subject has himself or herself detected or received information about the error.

To the extent the data subject is not able to rectify or delete the data himself or herself, the rectification and/or deletion request is made in accordance with section 12 of the privacy policy.

The data subject also has the right to ask the controller to restrict the processing of his or her data, for example, in a situation when the data subject is waiting for a response from Actim to a request to rectify or delete his or her data.

c) Data subject's right to object to the processing of his or her data and direct marketing (opt-out right)

The data subject has the right to object, on grounds relating to his or her particular situation, to profiling concerning him or her and other processing, which Actim targets on the data subject's personal data, to the extent the customer relationship between Actim and the data subject serves as grounds for data processing.

The data subject can present his or her claim concerning the objection in compliance with section 12 of this privacy policy. In connection with the claim, the data subject must itemise the specific situation based on which she or he objects to the processing. Actim may refuse from fulfilling the request concerning objection on the grounds provided in the law.

The data subject may provide Actim with consent and prohibition concerning direct marketing per channel.

The data subject has the right to receive the data he or she has supplied to Actim and transfer the said data to another controller. The data is delivered to the data subject primarily in a machine-readable format.

The data subject has a right to lodge a complaint with the competent supervisory authority if the controller has not complied with the applicable data privacy regulation.

Right to be forgotten:

The data subject has the right to request that all personal data concerning him or her, stored at Actim, be deleted when the customer relationship ends and/or there no longer is grounds for processing personal data.

Withdrawal of consent:

The data subject has the right to withdraw the consent she or he gave for personal data processing at any time. Withdrawal of consent has no impact on the legality of processing carried out prior to the withdrawal.

Request to delete personal data or withdrawal of consent is made by notifying Actim in compliance with section 12 of this privacy policy.

Right to receive a notification of a data security breach:

The customer and marketing register does not contain personal data related to privacy, but the data subject has the right to receive a notification of a data security breach without undue delay if this is expected to cause a high risk to the data subject's rights, primarily related to data security and privacy.

A notification of a data breach can be made either directly to the data subject or by using public means of communication if a direct notification is not implementable in the given situation with a reasonable effort or would cause a significant delay in the notification. In a direct notification, any contact information the person has given to Actim can be used.

Right to be informed of the processing of personal data for another purpose:

The data subject has the right to be informed in advance if the data provided by the data subject to the register is going to be processed for a purpose other than described in this privacy policy. This has no impact on the data subject's rights. The rights and other relevant additional data are explained to the data subject in connection with a communication related to such a situation.

12. Contacts

Actim implements requests related to using one's rights within one month from receiving the request. If a request is exceptionally extensive or causes a significant amount of additional work, based on the data protection regulation, Actim has an option for two months' additional time to fulfil the request. In such a situation, Actim will contact the requestor within one month from receiving the request.

If a request presented by a user is unfounded or unreasonable, such as frequent requests to inspect one's own data, based on the data protection regulation, Actim has an option to refuse the request.

Using one's own rights is primarily free of charge, but in case of repeated requests, Actim may expect reasonable compensation for expenses.

Upon need, Actim may ask the user to specify their request in writing, and the identity of the data subject can be verified when needed prior to starting other actions.
